

ABSTRACT

This single handed Computer Program Operation Interface is shaped to fit comfortably into the palm of a relaxed hand allowing the hand to function in a natural position dramatically reducing the possibility of debilitating injury to operators. Since the palm and wrist stabilize and manipulate the device, all five digits are free to perform independent program operations significantly increasing the speed and productivity of the operator.